

“ Our vision:
to provide trusted multilingual communication ”

COMPANY HISTORY

OUR STORY

Finding the right words since 1991

In 1991, Jeff Barger, CEO and President founded Corporate Translation Services (CTS) to offer language translation services for technical and industry-specific documentation. We have since changed our name to CTS LanguageLink to more easily identify with our full scope of services.

In 1995, CTS LanguageLink made its first acquisition, Merino Language Services, a Seattle-based interpretation company with over 20 years experience. The company made its second acquisition in July of 2001 with its purchase of Intex Multilingual Communications, a boutique interpretation and translation agency in Los Angeles, California.

Since then, our company has grown to support nearly 240 languages and dialects and more than 2,300 customers for both our translation and interpretation divisions.

Our corporate headquarters are located in the Pacific Northwest, where we support a full suite of solutions in-house, including translation, interpretation, localization, audiovisual, desktop publishing. Our clients come from all corners of the country and represent industries as diverse as the languages their customers speak.

WE GO BEYOND WORDS

Communicating with foreign speakers calls for more than word-for-word translation or interpretation. It demands subject matter expertise and an understanding of the target audience's culture. It also requires an ability to keep up with the dynamic nature of language. Our extensive network of native speakers, in-house talent and leading-edge technology allow us to meet all of these demands with high-quality, turnkey solutions.

WE WORK THE WAY OUR CUSTOMERS DO

Customer service is one of our highest priorities. That's why we've worked hard to provide our clients with convenient, 24/7 access to our services. Whether they choose to contact us over the phone or through our online customer portal, they can rely on us to respond immediately. They can count on that same level of service throughout the lifecycle of their project.

When our clients call for over-the-phone interpretation services, we're able to connect them to the most qualified interpreters within seconds. When the request is for translation services, we assign a project team that's able to meet the most pressing time-to-market demands.

Whatever the need, our customers have confidence in us to meet it efficiently with high-quality service and a cost-effective solution.

Our vision is simple: to provide trusted multilingual communication. Since 1991, we've upheld that vision, one customer at a time.
